Secondly - The next bundle<sup>is</sup> of letters that I suppose are really good for my soul - I have been called "wonderful" etc until I am getting concited, & these letters will, perhaps, save some kind friend the pain of putting me in my place - Anyway, I will have them to go to him or to thrusten me with as you see fit -

Thirdly - I have called all the newspaper clippings - Probably you have seen them all, but your valuable "boy" can take a look &

Dear Jim - How's that! -

You are not quite through with me yet, but the bunch of mail I am sending you is not as bad as it looks -

Firstly. - There are the "Harold" letters - His other name seems to be 'Joseph' - Don't you think that they - ending with the wire - prove that he is a plain lunatic?

They do not worry me, only I woud hate to have him turn up here - What does the wire mean?
It is beyond me - Should any thing

I don'ting all or any. There may be one the other day. — I really was, but I was not entirely satisfied. There was one item that worried me I did not seem quite fair.

It was the fee of my personal attorney —

I know who was running the case & where all the responsibility fell & with that in mind there seemed something rather queer about the ratio —

(I am terribly embarrassed!) — Willie & I want to put our attorney's fee in between Mr.
McCarte & Senator Case — This would have nothing to do with the other defendants, so please let us have our way. I have called on you so often for so many extensive things that you have had much more to do — I can hardly keep my eyes on the paper.

The trees are covered with ice & there is a wonderful setting sun that has made all the evergreens look like glorified Christmas trees sparkling with lights & stars. It is almost too beautiful & it takes my thoughts & flying to the garden —
